

Bunny blogger

International fashion bunny blogger, Fifi Lapin, has collaborated with Mamas & Papas for her second babywear collection.

Featuring the little rabbit's signature bunny kisses sign off, the range runs the gamut from sundresses and rompers to bodysuits and quilted jackets. It's in stores now, so hop to it!

Mini models

British supermodel and mum, Jourdan Dunn, has teamed up with UK high street staple Marks & Spencer to launch her first childrenswear range, celebrating her home city, London. The face of Maybelline's 'Lil' Londunn collection, inspired by her six-year-old son, Riley, features cool, casual, city-appropriate pieces for both boys and girls, aged five to 16.

www.marksandspencerme.com

Children's store Nest for Kids' is aiming to make the lives of mums a little easier, with its new range of early years essentials, from bottles to white noise machines.

www.nestforkids.co.uk

Family news

Treat the teachers

Every parent knows a school is only as good as its teaching staff, and now a new primary aiming to up the focus on staff happiness is preparing to open its doors in Dubai. JVT's British curriculum Arcadia Preparatory School will be built alongside high-end staff accommodation, in a bid to treat teachers "with the same value and respect that they are expected to instill in their students."

www.arcadia.sch.ae

Lively learning

Driven mad by your little one's love for crashing, banging and whooshing around the house? Capitalise on their interest in all things loud by treating them to a trip to the Ministry Of Science. The educational stage show aims to make chemistry and physics fun, with experiments and a hovercraft built live on stage. Enjoyable AND educational? Sign them up!

Madinat Zayed, Western Region, April 13 & 14, Paris-Sorbonne University, Abu Dhabi, April 16 & 17 and DUCTAC, Dubai, April 20.

www.ministryofscience.org

