Staff Report

Students of Arcadia Preparatory School, that will open this August, will be eligible for a Scholarship Fund and 30 per cent refund of their tuition fees.

Abdullah Al Shirawi and

Mohan Valrani, chairman and senior vice-chairman respectively of the Al Shirawi Group and founders of Dubai's Arcadia Preparatory School, have announced that all students entering the 2016-17 academic year will be automatically entitled to the scholarship benefits from the school.

Al Shirawi and Valrani made the announcement on Easter Sunday to signify the tolerant and inclusive student body that they intend to create at the school. "We want a school community that reflects the values espoused by the rulers of the UAE. The Arcadia Preparatory School will not only be an educational establishment but a haven of peace, happiness and harmony, open to children of all nationalities residing within the UAE," said Al Shirawi and Valrani in a joint statement.

The school follows the British curriculum.
